

355th FSS/FSWO GENERAL RELEASE

Please read this document before signing. If you have any questions please ask us or consult an attorney.

The 355th Force Support Squadron Outdoor Recreation has done everything possible to ensure that our guests have a rewarding and enjoyable experience. We wish to inform our guests that any outdoor adventure program/activity or educational experience is not risk free. The same elements that contribute to the unique character and fun of the experience such as the physical exertion and fast-paced outdoor activity can also cause loss or damage to equipment, injury, illness, or in extreme cases, permanent trauma or death. We do not want to heighten or reduce your enthusiasm for the experience, but we do want you to know in advance what to expect, and to be informed of these possible risks. We ask that you read this release, sign it, and return it to our staff.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RISK

There are risks that accompany all aspects of life as well as the adventure program you are going to experience. Many of these risks are inherent to the nature of the adventure program. Before taking part in a 355th Force Support Squadron, Outdoor Recreation activity, you must understand and accept all of the risks involved. A healthy understanding of these risks will ensure a safer, more enjoyable experience for all involved.

Risk of injury while participating in an Outdoor Recreation activity may be increased due to environmental and weather factors. The time of year and outdoor weather conditions can have a major effect on any injury. Injuries can also be caused by difficult terrain, extreme heat or cold, dangerous plants, insects or animals. Additionally, environmental conditions can lead to sunburn, dehydration, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat stroke, hypothermia or frost-bite. Lack of access to common amenities such as indoor eating facilities and rest/toilet facilities can also cause discomfort and injury to participants.

This list is not intended to be an exclusive or exhaustive list of possible injuries, trauma, or accidents that may occur while participating in an Outdoor Recreation adventure program. Most of these injuries are rare and you are not likely to encounter them if proper precautionary measures are taken. These injuries occur more often when the participants are using drugs or alcohol or not physically able to undertake the activity.

As part of the adventure, transportation maybe provided by motor vehicle, van, or bus, to and from the starting and ending point of the activity. You must understand and agree that you will not hold 355th Force Support Squadron Outdoor Recreation liable for any damages, injury or inconvenience resulting from this transportation.

Decisions during activities are often made by trip-leaders, volunteers, instructors, guides and participants in a wilderness setting, based on a variety of perceptions and evaluations weighed in light of their professional judgment. In order to participate, you must accept these risks and agree not to hold 355th Force Support Squadron Outdoor Recreation liable for any injury or inconvenience you receive as a direct or indirect result of a decision made by a trip-leader, instructor or guide. You must understand that you are responsible for your own safety and the safety of those around you throughout the course of the activity.

Trip-leaders and/or volunteer guides may request participation from attendees; it is solely your responsibility/choice to participate in any activity. You are responsible for asking questions of the activity trip-leaders, guides, or outfitters if you are unsure of the activity or have questions or concerns about the adventure program. You must understand that you are responsible for your own health and safety during throughout the adventure/activity program.
